“The beauty of God and His divine grace need no decoration because they are His beauty.

“If you fail to understand this, it will be like the action of one who does not deliberate carefully and has to suffer the pain of a living death.

“Where were we before, and what section does this belong to?”

“What is this connection, this part of the body?”

What are the things connected to this body?

Who and what is within this ‘I’ and what belongs to God?

What dies and what does not die?

What is within this body, what leaves, what remains and what is put into the earth?

“What goes to heaven, what goes to darkness and what goes to light?”

What goes to death and what goes to birth?

What has an end and what is endless?

What has a shadow and what is without shadow?

Who are we, who is God?

“These are questions which must be understood, analyzed, known, investigated, seen, identified and sorted out.

“This life, this body, the human appearance, the human form, human life, physical sense, physical spirits, God’s wisdom, His grace and His light must be distinguished and understood.

“If all this is not understood, life will be filled with sadness and distress.

“It will be a life of dying without dying.

“Understand this.
